Bank-Combs Suit To Be Heard Tuesday

Two former Perry County officials will go on trial tomorrow morning in Franklin County Circuit Court, Frankfort, facing charges of converting State Highway property to their own use.

The suit, filed in January in behalf of the State, seeks to collect $1,262 from former County Judge J. H. Banks and former Perry County Highway Superintendent Luther Combs for diverting 96 feet of reinforced concrete pipe from a State road project to a farm owned by Banks.

The suit charges the pipe was used with the "consent and connivance" of Combs. The suit was filed by Astor Hogg and Hafford Hays.

The complaint noted that the culvert material was to have been used on a construction project, the Coolidge Fork Road, but that the pipe was used to bridge a gully on the Banks farm near the site of the road project.

Hospital Promote 2 Staff Members

Staff members recently promoted at Hazard Memorial Hospital include Mrs. Bessie Miller Nichols and Mart Calhoun, according to W. Harold O'Neal, Administrator.

Mrs. Miller has been promoted to a position of Nursing Aide in the Ambulatory Patient Department. She is a graduate of Buckhorn High School and a member of District 10, Licensed Practical Nurses Association. Her daughter is Helen Joyce Nichols, 732 Combs Street, Hazard.

Mart Calhoun has been made a Food Supervisor in the Dietary Department. While on military duty he received special training in the Bakers and Cooks School, Camp Cook, California. He lives in Amburg with his wife, Gedra Smith Calhoun, and their three children, Nancy Nadine, Wallace and Delores Jean.

Lothair Get Home Delivery

Curb mail delivery into Lothair was started this morning, Mrs. Allie Gorman, Postmaster, announced Saturday.

Included in the new route, an extension of city service, are all the paved streets in Lothair. Ninety-three residents have signed up for the curb delivery, Mrs. Gorman noted. The new has a potential of 225 patrons, a recent survey showed.

The route is being serviced by a third Mailster, the three-wheel, gasoline powered scooters now being used by the postoffice to speed up deliveries.

Mrs. Gorman thanked residents of Lothair for their cooperation in getting a route established there. Members of the Lothair Parent Teacher's Association sponsored the sale of curb mailboxes within the community.

Mrs. Gorman said the Lothair postoffice substitution will remain open.

Local sportsmen and Federal conservation officials will discuss the future of the Robinson Forest Game Preserve at a meeting tomorrow night at City Hall, 7:30 p.m., Roscoe Davis announced Saturday.

The meeting, Davis said, will be to determine whether the forest is to continue as a big game preserve or to be abandoned for a "game management plan."

Tomorrow night's meeting will be to clear the air on a decision by Federal officials to do away with the forest as a big game preserve.

Davis said it is "highly important" that all local sportsmen attend the meeting. Representing the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service will be Don Strode, of Frankfort, and Howard Stevens, district biologist.

Davis noted Saturday that the future of the forest has been up in the air since April 25 when the federal government attempted to take down game refuge posters in the forest.

Davis said he had since been informed that the Federal government desires to place the forest under a "game management plan." He said details of the "game management plan" are unknown to him.

He said, however, that the government contends the "preserve has filled its purpose."

Local sportsmen, Davis pointed out, are against doing away with the preserve. He noted:

"As far as expense is concerned, the Federal government has practically none, since the State Conservation Office does practically all work on the forest."

He said that if the preserve was abandoned, it could mean the end of the deer population.

He also indicated that the scenic beauty of the preserve might be marred if the forest is thrown open to the public.

Davis pointed out the forest has "economic value" to local businessmen since it lured 6,000 hunters into the area for the 6-day, November deer season last year.

Contest Winner

L'wood Writer Wins Herald Contest

A transplanted Virginian who writes because he "likes too" is the winner in the Hazard Herald's first Correspondent Contest.

The winner is Charles Mooney, correspondent from Slomp and Leatherwood and penman for "Leatherwood Locals," a regular feature of the Herald's.

The contest has been conducted over the past year for correspondents. Mooney and his wife won the contest at the Kentucky park of their choosing.

Results of the contest were announced this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Nolan, publishers of the Hazard Herald.

The father of three children, Mooney was one of the rural correspondents to enter the contest. The contest was promoted by the Herald to encourage residents of communities outside of Hazard to send the news of their communities into the paper.

In their decision selecting Mr. Mooney as the winner, the judging committee of three newsmen noted:

"While competition was keen among the entrants, Mrs. Mooney won on the basis of consistency. Throughout the contest year, he rarely missed being in at least one issue of the Herald every week."

Originally from Big County, Va., Mr. Mooney is employed by the Blue Diamond mines in the preparation plant. His wife, the former Miss Gola Smith of Letcher County, is postmaster at Slomp.

A favorite hobby of Mr. Mooney's is reading. He is also active in the Berean Baptist Church and is Sunday School Superintendent.

A "crusading correspondent," Mr. Mooney was one of the first persons in the county to call attention to the Leatherwood road. His column noted that it was in bad need of surfacing and was driving business from Hazard into Cumberland and Harlan.

His comments resulted in the Herald editorially going to bat for paving the road, and saw city fathers take up the cry. Through the work of the Board of Commissioners last year, including Mayor Douglas Combs, Commissioner Calloway Colwell and former commissioner R. W. Gibson, the road was paved in November.

Plastic Greenhouse

Shown above are exterior and interior views of a recently completed plastic greenhouse at Kentucky State Reformatory farm, LaGrange. Cost of construction and materials, including piping from central heating system of institution, was approximately $350 according to Charles Stagner, Director of Farm Management Division. The new project affords opportunity for additional training of inmates assigned to the Reformatory farm program and makes possible increased food production for the institution.

Top picture shows exterior view of the greenhouse. Next picture below and one at bottom are scenes of cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower and tomato plants which are now ready for transplanting. The two interested observers are C. J. Roderer, reformatory gardner, and John S. Special Church Services Held;
Dr. Gabbard Visits School

Bernice T. Hiser
A special church service was held at the Presbyterian Church Thursday afternoon and night and a friendship supper to which church friends were invited was given for the speakers by the Agency boarding hall. Two returned missionaries gave interesting talks and lantern slides on Bangkok, Chile, and Thailand. One of the missionaries spent the night with Mr. Selden Riley and daughter, Sadie; the other with Mr. and Mrs. Crit Keen.

Our sympathy to Mary Jane Smith, one of our freshman girls, in the death of her father, Floyd last week.

The junior class had a square dance Friday, the 18th, at school. A special feature was singing with guitar accompaniment by the Campbell twins, I.B. and I.D.

Dr. Elmer E. Gabbard, a Buckhorn graduate and administrator of the institution from 1938-1956, was a visitor at the school Thursday, the 24th. He was accompanied by his home at Berea by Mrs. Gabbard. It was good to see him again.

Many of our students and some of the teachers attended the funeral Tuesday of Cecil Campbell at Dunraven.

Mr. John Morris, for nearly fifty years a teacher in Perry County, died of a heart attack Monday night, the 21st while sitting up at the wake held for Cecil Campbell at Dunraven. Mr. Morris was a teacher at Dunraven this year. Mr. Gilbert Bowling, Superintendent of Perry County Schools, asked that all Perry County Schools observe five minutes silence from 2:20-2:25 p.m. the 22nd in Mr. Morris' memory.

The junior class won the Interclass basketball tournament held at our school from the 17th to the 24th.

I. B. and I. D., the Campbell twins had to leave our school and neighborhood after the death of their father. They went to Indiana to live with their mother. We shall certainly miss them, their sweet happy faces and entertaining music, and wish them the best of luck in their new environment, and hope they can return next year.

Boating has become the new hobby of our superintendent, Mr. Gilbert Bowling. Ora and Susie Hiser enjoyed a few hours on the river with him and family Sunday afternoon.

The menonites on Gays Creek are holding a week's revival just now, led by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Palmer. Several of the neighbors are going to this series of meetings.

Jackson Receives
Planning Help

The Kentucky Department of Economic Development has contracted to provide the City of Jackson with technical assistance on planning and zoning matters.

The department's assistance is designed, in part, to help Jackson meet federal requirements as the site of a low-rent housing project. Jackson also is considering an urban renewal project under federal sponsorship.

Studies to be made under the contract, signed by Dr. Clyde Bays, chairman of the recently-created Jackson Planning and Zoning Commission, and Economic Development Commissioner George W. Hubley Jr., will concern zoning maps and ordinances, land use, a city base map, and other technical features of the city's planning program.

Jackson, the county seat of Breathitt County, has a population of about 2,100. It is the 33rd Kentucky city to draw on the department's Planning and Zoning Division for assistance.

NOSEBLEED

Nosebleeds are very common in childhood, especially in young girls during their early menstrual periods. Of course, a great many other factors may be involved, such as injury, excessive nose picking, certain diseases of the blood and blood vessels, conditions associated with whooping cough and various other common contagious diseases of childhood.

SYMPTOMS: The bleeding usually begins suddenly without warning and may seem distressingly profuse, although in most cases the flow is not really very great. (A little blood goes a long way and makes an awful mess.) Sometimes a child has an attack in his sleep and swallows blood which he may later vomit. Most attacks stop by themselves, but they do get worse if the child is frightened, so the parent should be calm and soothing.

TREATMENT: You can usually control a child's nosebleed without a great deal of difficulty. The bleeding frequently comes from a network of veins lying very near the surface of the membrane just inside the nose, which ruptures easily.

Many first-aid measures are commonly recommended, such as placing a roll of cotton tightly under the upper lip, applying ice either to the nose or back of the neck, or applying a firm pressure with the thumbs against the upper lip with the thumbs just below the nose.

In most cases, however, the simplest and most effective method is to insert gently into each nostril a small wad of sterile absorbent cotton so that a little cotton will protrude from the openings. Then gently and firmly press the nostrils between your thumb and fingers steadily for at least six minutes by the clock. Always keep the child in a sitting position—not lying down. Keep him calm and reassured by being that way yourself; remember that anxiety and what we call "nervousness" and emotional tension are contagious as far as children are concerned. Ordinarily, there is no cause for undue concern on your part. After six minutes are up-and-not before-gradually release the pressure on the nose and watch for further bleeding. Do NOT

COUNTY AGENTS' MEMOS

Eastern Kentucky Sheep Meeting Local Citizens Attending

Paul Keen, County Agricultural Extension Agent
John Caudill, Associate County Agent

Green Holliday, Victor Spurlock, John C. Combs and Cager Napier prominent Perry County farmers and Paul Keen, County agent will attend sheep meeting next Monday at Morehead. Hundreds of farmers and others from Eastern Kentucky are expected to attend.

Special features of the very interesting program is a lamb barbecue, talks by Richard C. Miller, Dr. W. P. Garrigus, and Ray Dutt all from University of Kentucky. There will also be a panel discussion by flock owners on "The Plan of Sheep in Eastern Kentucky."

Several counties in Eastern Kentucky have sheep as a major livestock enterprise and find it very profitable. The field meeting is to acquaint others with what has been done and possibilities of sheep in their area.

Corn
Corn is a very important crop in Perry County. Every attempt should be made to get top yields. Select good deep fertile soil least subject to erosion. Soil should be tested to determine fertility program. Prepare a good seed bed and plant on time.

Plant an adapted hybrid. Some adapted white hybrids are as follows: Kentucky 204 and U. S. 523 W. Some good yellow hybrids are: Kentucky 103, Kentucky 104, Kentucky 105 and Kentucky 106 A.

Corn crop removes considerable plant food. The best fertilizer program is based on a soil test. The amount of fertilizer needed varies with natural fertility of soil, with past cropping history, and management of land. Most fertilizer for corn should be broadcast, however small to medium applications are most effective if used in row. With high analysis fertilizers care must be taken not to use excessive amounts in row and injure germination of seed. A good rule of thumb in using fertilizer in row is to add total nitrogen and actual potash figure together and have them not exceed 40 lbs. per acre. Thus if 14-14-14 is used, no more than 150 lbs. should be used in row. If 5-10-10 is used 275 lbs. may be used in row. Fertilizer should never be applied directly on seed.

100 bushels of corn removes 140 lbs. nitrogen, 40 lbs. phosphorus and 120 lbs. potash. Thus if a soil test is run and amount of plant food in soil determined fertilizer needed for certain yields can be added.

Forestry
Perry County landowners set more than 770,000 tree seedlings this year. 763,500 were obtained through A. S. C. by purchase order. This program represents the joint effort and planning by all agencies including State Division of Forestry, Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, and Agricultural Stabilization Service. Preliminary reports show that Perry County again leads state in this very important program. It will mean more future income and this great natural resource will be preserved for this and future generations.

New Lasting PROTECTION AGAINST TERMITES AND MANY HOUSEHOLD PESTS

NIX-A-MITE TURB-O-FOG Tubing System

Saves Money—Eliminates Worry!
Now, with the turn of a knob, you can maintain continuing protection from termites and many household pests with a NIX-A-MITE Turb-O-Fog tubing system. This is a system built up of the fine perforated tubing installed below the floor joists in the substructure of your home and within the outer walls. Just turn the knob, and highly toxic insecticides are forced through the network of tubing under pressure up to 1500 pounds per square inch. Applying the high pressure for only 30 seconds creates a turbulent spray that blankets the entire vulnerable structure, leaving crystals which are lasting and deadly to pests. Supplemental treatments, as needed, will provide control of many household pests, including roaches, ants, waterbugs, silverfish, crickets and larvae of mosquitoes and flies.

BUILT-IN GUARDIAN OF YOUR HOME
A NIX-A-MITE Turb-O-Fog tubing system can be easily and quickly installed in any home old or new—and it provides continuing protection. These installed in become a much a part of your home as the plumbing and a ready system.

NIX-A-MITE Turb-O-Fog tubing system is "built-in" for keeps—a permanent guardian of your home and investment.

HAZARD, KENTUCKY

Folks, this weather reminds me of the song that you hear about every time you turn around "There Is A Lot of Shaking Going On." Maybe that it is not proper name for it. With the past few sunny days and warm weather I would say it is the proper time to start a lot of shaking. Which I have noticed, such as cleaning off lawns and gardens, planting every thing from flowers, to big crops. I feel the same as you, it does one good to be able to get out in the yard or garden, to dig into old mother nature again. I had just about given up that it would ever thaw out enough for us to ever get a chance to dig for a spell. Have noticed a few digging here and there in their plots, when I asked them if they were about ready to get their garden out. Yes was the reply, I have learned a long time ago that when you see a person spading up in spots over his garden site, I doubt very much if he is spading it up to plant anything in, when I did this I was always accused of looking for red worms to go fishing. Anyway I can't say I blame you, the garden can wait a few days until the fever wears off. Then you can always have some consolation that part of the garden is ready for planting when you get around to it.

MANY SAYS

That we won't have the usual spring winters, due to the fact that we had such a bad one, far be it for me to state this. I have always been accustomed to the spring winters, such as blackberry, dogwood, redbud, sarvis, and a few more that I have heard of, one in particular I gave a name to was Hedge Blooming, you that have hedge watch it this year. I would suggest that you not try to rush spring around too fast. Many of you have seen more of them than I, you no doubt are right. I am willing to wait and see, what else can we do. The good man above will send us what ever we need. That also goes for Sputniks and other man made objects. My advise is to keep your fingers crossed.

White Jim Combs says that he is in favor of destroying all alamas, because it has knocked him out of more fishing trips than anything else he ever knew of. I believe he has given up trying to out guess it this year, as he states that the "darned" thing has been right so many days. With this sunny weather that is in progress I am sure that White Jim will round up his crew and be on their long waited tour. Which should wind them up in Lake Cumberland area. Eighty eight years young, Jim, I am looking forward to a fish fry. Just found out that he is already over at the lake.

GOOD TO HEAR

From you, Mrs. Byrd Adams, up Detroit way, she also sent me a bulletin that is called the KPL, which stands for Knott, Perry and Letcher Counties in Michigan. In this bulletin I read that these people from our area are planning their first reunion to be held on June 23rd. Thanks very much, Mrs. Adams for your kind invitation to attend. I only hope that something will happen to make it possible. I think all of you are doing a wonderful thing in keeping in touch with your friends and neighbors from your respective areas here in Eastern, Ky. Noticed on paragraph in the bulletin. Why K.P.L. was formed, "It read like this." In short, our purpose is to help these people, who have much in common. To find a better way of life by taking the positive view toward our present situation, and taking constructive steps to improve our lot. With this spirit that you have I am sure that you good people from our area will accomplish a better understanding of the things that we appreciate so much. This I think that all our people has a certain pride, regardless of where they might go or make their home, this pride of our forefathers goes along with them. It does me good to see the traditions of our people being carried out in so many sections of our country.

Also to you Mrs. Ida Combs down Cincinnati way, good to hear that you are looking forward to the nice weather that we should be having all along from now. She states that she has some of the old time beer seed that our folks use to make a beverage from. No, it won't make you tipsy, I can remember it. Many days has passed since I saw any of it.

Also to you Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Baker, it was nice talking to you, after nine years they are back with us again. Mrs. Baker has taught school here in Perry County for over thirty years, yes it is always a pleasure to welcome our home folks back home again, may you never have the occasion or the urge to roam again. Mrs. Baker is now retired, and I am not too sure that Floyd will soon be. Nice having you in the community again.

Also to you Dr. J. P. Boggs, who has retired from his practice. I don't blame you, because you have done your part. Let Eli carry on where you left off. I guess without a doubt that he has brought into this world about as many babies as any other Doctor. Good to talk to you, I would prescribe a good fishing trip for you. You are still young enough to do a lot of that.

Good to talk to you Mrs. Lettie Steele, also you Ann Rader, Elihu Reynolds, to so many many others that I have failed to jot down your names. I will get around to it the next time, just keep talking to me.

CLEAN UP

To me, this is one of the greatest things that has ever come to Perry County and the city. I am confident that we have the pride to see a clean city and county. Each individual must take this responsibility upon himself to see that it is done. Of course after the flood of last year, many used our streams to get rid of their refuse. Lets take some pride in our streams, we have some of the finest in America, believe it or not. Lets all lend a hand in the clean up program, you won't regret it. Lets make Hazard and Perry County a cleaner place in which to live. I would suggest that each business house close for one half day, they along with their employees overhauls, and really get out and see what needs to be done. Impose a heavy fine on any one that has no respect for helping clear up our sanitary conditions. We must drink the water comes from our streams, think of the pleasures that could come from them other than the very necessities of life. We are no different from other areas. To really make a good clean up, it has to be thorough.

Present Flag Was Authorized in Sampson Term

—by Charles F. Hinds

Frankfort, April 25—Kentucky's State Flag was first authorized by an Act of the General Assembly in 1918, but it was not until Governor Sampson's administration, approximately ten years later, that the Commonwealth's present flag was adopted.

There had been two other attempts of the Adjutant General's Department to designate an official flag. The first was in 1920, but the design was not acceptable. The rejected banner was then consigned to the safekeeping of the Kentucky Historical Society, where it is now displayed.

The second attempt was made in 1921. Several leading artists in Louisville were asked to meet in the studio belonging to Charles Snodgrass Williams. A composite of three drawings selected as the best submitted by the artists was sent to the Adjutant General, but there the matter rested for several years.

County Teachers Score Rocking Chair Apathy

We're interested in the development of Perry County and Kentucky. No doubt we have a few citizens who are interested, but we don't know about the majority. We sit back and let someone else do the job while we converse among ourselves how it should be done.

Time for action has come. From reading the Hazard Herald, which we commend for becoming county newspaper, the financial status of our county is deplorable and then the magistrates of the county vote to pay themselves $200 per month over the County Judge's pleadings to set salaries in accordance with the work load.

Do we have any loyal, devoted, self-sacrificing people left? Not only in the county but our country as a whole? We're not criticizing as that isn't our duty, but there's no law against wondering.

Pioneering days are over, "they say." Our forefathers fought, suffered and died to give us a land of freedom. We've hit easy street and now all we want is something for nothing. What would they think of our people who won't go the extra mile without extra pay?

Look over our county as a whole, compared to other counties. We are not the richest, but yet we aren't the poorest. How about our roads? Can we even compare them with any? On State Highway 28, a school bus got stuck, not on the shoulders or the ditch, but in the MIDDLE of the road. We realize this has been a bad winter on roads, but we have never had our share of roads especially in the lower end of the county.

Something we have failed to do in our county. State and country is to place people who are qualified and able to do the job. But the trend everywhere is politics instead of qualification.

Where are we headed? It's time for good, loyal, solid citizens to wake up and think!

John Crittenden Was Kentucky's 16th Governor

By Charles F. Hinds

The name, John J. Crittenden, Governor of Kentucky, 1840-50, was one to be reckoned with in state and national politics for over a half century. Long Whig and supporter of Henry Clay, he and Clay fell out in 1847 when Crittenden supported Taylor instead of Clay for President of the United States, an act which Clay forgave only on the latter's death bed.

Crittenden was born in Woodford County in 1787, the son of John and Judith Harris Crittenden. He was educated in Kentucky preparatory schools and at Washington University and William and Mary. He studied law under George M. Bibb, and upon being admitted to the bar, began his practice in Woodford County. Shortly afterward he moved to Russellville, where he gained a considerable reputation as a lawyer.

Prior to and during the War of 1812, he served successively as aide-de-camp to General Sam Hopkins and to Governors Charles Scott and Isaac Shelby. In 1811 he entered the political arena for the first time and was sent to the legislature from Logan County. This marked the beginning of a varied and important political career which saw Crittenden in the Kentucky legislature 1811-17, 1823, 1829-32, in Congress 1818-19, 1841, 1848, 1855-63, as District Attorney and Secretary of State (Kentucky), and as Attorney General of the United States 1841, 1850-53.

Crittenden was conservative in his views. On the slavery issue, he worked with Henry Clay and others to effect a compromise between the Northern and Southern factions. Failing to check the extremists, he lived to see the beginnings of the fratricidal conflict and his influence persuasive in Kentucky's refusal to leave the Union and join the Confederate states.

As the war progressed, he opposed any move on the part of the North to conquer or subjugate the South. By 1863, the year of his death in Frankfort, Crittenden was finding acts of the national government to his dislike, but he died full of hope that the union of the United States would not perish in the struggle and that the rights of the seceding states would emerge unimpaired.

Seagoing Squelch Is Thumbs Down - Don't Clown

While the next few weeks, some 35 million Americans will "go down to the sea in ships"—in more than seven million small pleasure craft that will fare forth on bays and sounds and lakes and rivers and on the great oceans as well!

This is a fantastic number to anyone whose love of the water, either fresh or salt, goes back a few years. We might mention, as a reference point, that in the piping days of 1929, the boating industry bragged about a "pleasure marine" of more than 50,000 vessels!

In bringing to so many more people in such a relatively short time the new horizons and relaxation that only the water can provide, this terrific expansion in amateur seafaring has brought its problems, too. Unfavorably, it set thousands afloat who had no instinct and little feeling for this new world of sky and sea in which they found themselves. Lacking the traditional respect for the deep, it was to them just another playground—and morons who enjoyed horseplay ashore took it to sea with them, having no comprehension of the perils involved.

The problem of controlling these waterborne hooligans and rescuing them and the innocent victims of their ignorance and folly has long outstripped the facilities and manpower of the US Coast Guard, big brother of the American yachtsman since 1790. Today, the best hope for sanity on the seas—inland and coastal—is the psychological campaign launched last year by yachtsman Harry Williams. This seasoned sailor's reaction to sky-larking on the water is "Thumbs down, don't clown", a slogan that is conveyed to the offender by a fist with the thumb pointing to Davy Jones' locker.

In its first year, Mr. Williams' slogan and signal were endorsed by the Outboard Boating Club of America and various other yachtsmen's organizations—and put to good use on both coasts and the waters in between. Wherever the thumbs-down signal was used this universal understood Bronx cheer of the sign language put the squelch on the show-offs and marine clowns lacking in regard for the rights, comfort or safety of others.

In addition to their respect for wind and wave and the rights of others, and the safety devices required by law and dictated by common sense, proper sailors will be prepared again this year with that devastating hand signal. Now firmly established as an addition to the Rules of the Road at Sea is "Thumbs Down—Don't Clown."

LETTER Reply To Lexington Herald Story by C. H. Combs

Hazard, Ky.
April 22, 1958

To the Editor:

With reference to a letter published in Monday's Herald from one of our county magistrates, criticizing Miss Jessie Horn in connection with a story recently published in the Lexington Herald, I wish to give some facts about the story.

This story was wired to the Herald showing that the magistrates had voted themselves salaries of $200.00 per month. In order to give some facts about the condition of the county treasury I asked Miss Horn several questions and gave her answers in the story, as follows: "The budget for this fiscal year is practically exhausted; the county is unable to borrow money from any source; the county has current bills of some $19,000.00 and an outstanding Civil Defense obligation of $65,000.00".

The editor telephoned me that night and suggested that he build the story around criticism by Miss Horn. I told him that the story should be "slanted" in the direction of the vote by magistrates, and not toward any criticism by Miss Horn.

The editor chose an unfortunate headline and made it appear that Miss Horn was a critic of this action by the magistrates.

In fairness to Miss Horn, she only gave out some facts regarding the financial condition of the county, which has not been disputed. I fail to see where the amount of money spent by Miss Horn in the operation of her office has any connection with the action of magistrates in voting themselves this salary.

—C. H. COMBS.

Grassroots Opinion

QUINCY, MASS., PATRIOT LEDGER: "No form of transportation is isolated from the weather but railroading is less affected than any other."

Hospitality Is Everybody's Business Today

Few people will think of the hotel—either the one in town or the motor hotel in the outskirts—as a local industry. Yet, it is one of the most important. Collectively, over the nation, it will bolster our somewhat sagging economy by expenditures of two-and-a-half billion dollars this year!

And most of this will be spent locally—for wages, food, beverages and the hundreds of other supply and maintenance items and services required to keep the nation's hostelrys operating. It is important to note, too, that most of the money taken in by the hotel is new money—from outside the community—that would not come to town but for these accommodations. In addition, those who stop at the hotel also spend money in town. This year, for instance, Americans are expected to spend some twenty billions on travel!

We are indebted for this encouraging information to Mullard Bennett, president of the American Hotel Association who explains further: "Over 85 percent of every hotel dollar finds its way into the pockets of the nation's business and professional men, farmers and laborers. The balance is accounted for in interest and tax payments—and profits—which average about four percent, nationwide."

"We spend about 38 cents of the hotel dollar for wages, 15 cents for food and beverages, and 23 cents for operating costs. Rent, interest and profits account for 8 cents, depreciation, 6 cents. Taxes total ten cents out of every dollar. We do our heavy spending—for services and supplies—right in the community in which we operate."

In addition to the pleasant influences of out-of-town visitors on local business activity, they also reduce everybody's local taxes. Mr. Bennett cites "a Southern city of 125,000 population" which estimates that hotel taxes plus taxes paid by tourists on direct purchases mean that every single visitor to the city reduces the local tax burden by 50 cents!

State Sets Hunting-Fishing Costs

Acting under a new law passed by the 1958 Legislature, the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission today set the type and cost schedule for various hunting and fishing licenses in Kentucky following an executive session of the Commission held at Kentucky Lake on April 26.

The Commission, under the act, was required to set up the schedule which will become effective on June 19, 1958.

After the June 19 date both hunting and fishing licenses will cost $3 a year for residents, plus an additional 25 cents which will be collected by the county clerks as their fee. The clerk's fee on all other licenses also will be added to the original cost of the licenses, the Commission announced.

The Commission also set the cost for deer hunting tags this year. For a resident hunter the fee will be $10 plus the 50 cents fee of the county clerk, while the cost of a tag for a non-resident will be $25 plus the 50 cent fee. Also, deer hunters must have a legal hunting license in addition to the tag. The type and cost schedule for all other licenses was re-adopted as presently effective by the Commission, with, however, the clerk's fee added.

A regulation effective June 19 also was adopted at the Kentucky Lake meeting allowing persons to seine and sell minnows from the Ohio River only where a seine 30 feet long, six feet high and with a mesh not larger than one-fourth inch may be used. In all other state waters a seine of not more than 10 feet in length, four feet deep and with a mesh of not openings not larger than one inch.

The Commission also ordered the issuing of a regulation governing and describing all types of field trials which may be held by clubs or individuals.

Action was taken also on pollution cases. It was pointed out that in actual cases of pollution (where fish are being killed instantly) the Department will prosecute the offender. However, other cases will be turned over to the recently reorganized Water Pollution Board for handling.
